It is doubtful if the Charity formed by Lady Lingayammanni avaru can be considered as a Public Charity, since its purpose is stated to be "the education of students of her and connected families as well as other poor students" The coupling of her private interest with that of the public perhaps vitiates the nature of the Charity as a Public Charity

2) no doubt the officer in charge of the Palace establishments says that "for the present it is intended to obtain the interest accruing therefrom to grant scholarships to deserving students of the Hosmar Communities &c", but it seems doubtful if that can affect the original object, which in part is clearly private

3) It seems therefore necessary to obtain information regarding the precise nature of the endowment B.III may be first consulted
